

CEO of NRG
Stanchenko Andriy

The company "JT International Company Ukraine JSC" expresses its gratitude to the trainers of the "NRG" company Olena Yeliseieva and Andriy Stanchenko for the quality conducted modules of the online program "Leading people in the new era" for the senior and middle management of our company, as well as the further coaching support of the participants (Olena Yeliseieva – Module "Skills of flexible communication and emotional intelligence online"), Andriy Stanchenko – Module "Capstone").

The modules of the online program were built on real-life situations, taking into account the peculiarities of our business and its organizational model. Each participant received practical knowledge and skills necessary for further management of their teams in remote mode and achieving the expected results.

The material offered during the program about human emotions and their causes, as well as tools for their analysis and further work with them, made it possible to update the attitude of the participants on the importance of the emotional state and atmosphere in the team and their impact on achieving the expected results. And the superstructure in the form of non-verbal diagnostic techniques and analysis of practical cases expanded the communicative potential of managers.

Post-training support in the form of coaching sessions also allowed to work out the individual characteristics of each manager and consolidate the obtained results.

In addition, the participants noted the trainers' ability to organize group interaction and the educational process, depth and life experience, and the ability to simply explain complex things.

We wish you new successes and achievements and hope for further cooperation!

Best regards,
Stanislav Fotchenko
